Matt Williams – #15 Retired Jersey

Matt Williams is the first and only player in UNLV baseball history to have his jersey retired. The ceremony took place during halftime of the Runnin' Rebels-Florida basketball game at the Thomas & Mack Center on Dec. 22, 1990.

Williams, who was inducted into the UNLV Athletic Hall of Fame in 1997, became just the sixth UNLV athlete to have his or her jersey retired at that time. He joined the honorable ranks of Sidney Green (basketball), David Cohen and Robbie Ryerson (soccer), Randall Cunningham and Elbert "Ickey" Woods (football), and Misty Thomas (women's basketball). The list now also includes Pauline Jordan (women's basketball), Larry Johnson, Stacey Augmon, Glen Gondrezick and Reggie Theus (men's basketball), and Lori Harrigan (softball).

Williams played at UNLV from 1984-86. He was baseball's first preseason All-America selection in 1986. He batted .351 with 25 home runs and 89 RBIs and was chosen a 1986 consensus First Team All-American by Baseball America, The Sporting News and Collegiate Baseball.

Williams, who played his high school ball at Carson City in Nevada, led UNLV to a 118-69-1 record (.630) during his career and an NCAA playoff appearance in 1984. He is UNLV's all-time home run king with 58.

Williams went third in the 1986 draft as the number one pick of the San Francisco Giants, making him the highest drafted player in UNLV baseball history. In 1990, Williams became the most prolific run-producing third baseman in Giants' history with 122 RBIs, surpassing Mel Ott's 116 from 1938.

Williams was the 1990 National League All-Star third baseman, batting .277 with 33 home runs and 171 hits. In 1991, Williams hit 34 homers to break the Giants' single-season record for home runs by a third basemen which was established by Jim Hart in 1968 and tied by Williams' own 33 home runs in 1990. In 1993, he hit 38 home runs, batting .294, and was selected to the Associated Press Major League All-Star Team. In 1994, he led the major leagues with a career-high 43 home runs in a strike-shortened season and started in his first All-Star game at third base.

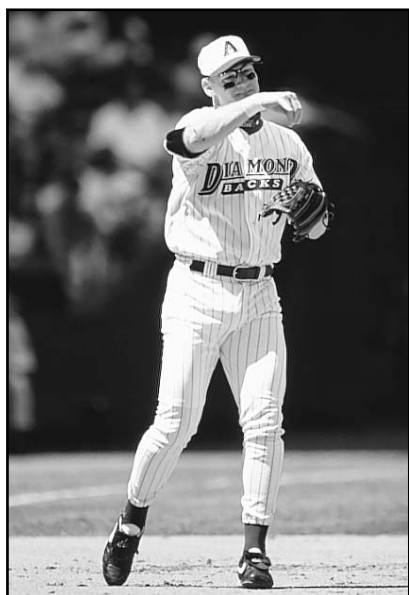

In 1996, Williams was traded during the off-season to the Cleveland Indians and was instrumental in guiding Cleveland to the 1997 World Series. He is also a four-time Golden Glove Award winner (1991, 1993, 1994 and 1997).

Williams joined the Arizona Diamondbacks in 1998. With the Diamondbacks, he reached the pinnacle of baseball, winning the 2001 World Series over the New York Yankees in what many have called one of the most exciting World Series ever played. Williams hit a three-run homer in the seventh inning as the Diamondbacks posted a 4-0 victory over the New York Yankees in game two of the 2001 World Series.

Williams retired at the end of the 2004 season, finishing his 17-year career with 378 home runs, 1,218 RBI and 1,878 hits.

Fred Dallimore - #13 Retired Jersey

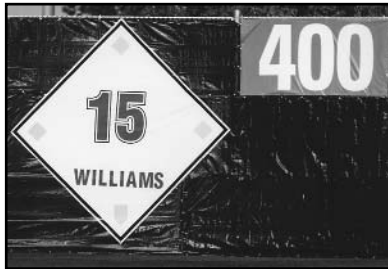

Former UNLV head coach Fred Dallimore had his #13 jersey retired prior to the 1997 season opener against UCLA on Jan. 31, 1997, at Wilson Stadium.

Dallimore and former UNLV great Matt Williams also had their jersey numbers unveiled that are permanently displayed on the 12' high outfield fence. Dallimore, along with former Runnin' Rebel head coach Jerry Tarkanian, are the only two coaches to have numbers retired in UNLV history (Tark #2).

Dallimore was the head coach of the Hustlin' Rebels for 23 seasons (1974-96). He compiled an overall record of 794-558-2 (.587). He ranked 31st on the NCAA All-Time Winningest Division I Coaches list. He arrived in Las Vegas in 1969 and was an assistant coach at UNLV under Bob Doering from 1969-73.

UNLV appeared in the NCAA Tournament seven times under Dallimore including an appearance in 1996 in the NCAA South II Regional. 1996 Rebels compiled an overall record of 43-17 and captured the Big West Tournament Championship with victories over nationally ranked UC Santa Barbara, Cal State Fullerton and Long Beach State. The .717 winning percentage was the second highest in the program's history.

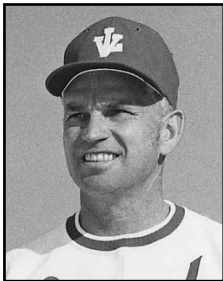

Dallimore guided the Rebels to 19 .500 or better winning percentage seasons in 23 years and 19 30-win or better seasons over 21 years. UNLV won 40 or more games eight times, including a season-high 53 victories in 1980. The 1980 club finished second in the NCAA Midwest Regionals and were one victory away from advancing to the College World Series. The 1980 squad was inducted into the UNLV Athletic Hall of Fame on Sept. 16, 1994. In his 23 seasons as head coach, UNLV averaged 34.5 wins a season.

UNLV All-Time Coaching Records

NOTE: "Chub" Drakulich was head coach in the 1960s, however, baseball records were not kept until the 1967 season.

Ralph Garcia

RALPH GARCIA (1967-70)

Garcia is UNLV's all-time strikeout king with 462 strikeouts in 343.2 innings pitched. He is one of only four pitchers in UNLV history to record 30 career victories. He was 30-22 with a season best record of 10-5 in 1969. That same year, he established the single-season school record with 144 strikeouts. His record stood for over a quarter of a century until Nate Yeskie threw 147 strikeouts to overtake the title in 1995. Garcia went on to play for the San Diego Padres.

Herb Pryor

HERB PRYOR (1971-73, 1978)

Pryor is UNLV's all-time career leader in ERA (2.54), innings pitched (453) and complete games (40) and is tied for the lead in career victories (35) and shutouts (4). He is one of only four pitchers in UNLV history to record at least 30 career victories (35-21). He pitched the school's first no-hitter and only perfect game on March 16, 1971 against Colorado. Pryor was a member of UNLV's first playoff team in 1978 when the Rebels compiled a 44-20 record. He was 14-4 with a 2.42 ERA in 148.2 innings pitched that year.

MATT WILLIAMS (1984-86)

Williams is UNLV's all-time home run king with a school record 58 career home runs and is perhaps the best player in UNLV baseball history. In 1990, he became the first and only player in UNLV baseball history to have his jersey (#15) retired. Williams was a 1986 consensus first-team All-American by Baseball America, The Sporting News and Collegiate Baseball. He went third in the 1986 draft as the number one pick of the San Francisco Giants, making him the highest drafted player in UNLV baseball history. Williams has enjoyed an outstanding major league career. He is a four-time Golden Glove Award winner and four-time all-star. He was also the 1994 major league home run king with a career-high 43 for the season. Williams retired at the end of the 2004 season, finishing his 17-year career with 378 home runs, 1,218 RBI and 1,878 hits.

Hazel and Earl Wilson

The UNLV baseball program boasts one of the top 15 facilities in college baseball. The 3,000-seat Earl E. Wilson Baseball Stadium at Roger Barnson Field is a beautiful attraction, drawing the best teams in college baseball to Las Vegas.

The stadium dedication was held on Saturday, January 29, 1994 in conjunction with the UNLV Alumni game. A crowd of 2,500 attended the game and grand opening ceremonies.

A gift of $1.2 million was used for the construction of Wilson Stadium. The total gift of $6.6 million was donated from the estate of the late Earl and Hazel Wilson.

The Wilsons, married for over 50 years, came to Las Vegas in the 1930's and were involved in a number of Las Vegas business ventures. Earl Wilson held a gaming license since 1948 and was a major stockholder in the Golden Nugget Hotel. He once played semi-professional baseball in Oregon and was an avid golfer.

"Earl was a big baseball fan," said Mel Wolzinger, who is the co-trustee of the Wilson Estate. "Baseball was one of his great loves. It's a great honor to have his name associated with this outstanding facility. The stadium is a first class facility, which symbolizes the first class people that Earl and Hazel were.

"The Wilsons were involved in the Las Vegas community for more than 50 years. It's a great tribute that they could help the University of Nevada, Las Vegas both academically and athletically with this donated gift."

Ground was broken on August 2, 1993, and the stadium was completed in January of 1994. The stadium features two types of seats - 2,500 theater-type seats and 500 bleacher-back seats. Other assets include a 60-foot enclosed press box, restrooms and concession areas for fans, a new public address system, batter's eye in center field, a new backstop, paved parking for 400 cars, and stadium entrance complete with disabled access (tunnel and ramp).

The UNLV baseball program will begin its 29th season playing on the baseball diamond, which is situated on the northwest corner of the campus.

Originally named Hustlin' Rebel Field, the ballpark's official stadium dedication was held on April 1, 1973 when the USC Trojans defeated the Rebels 9-2 in front of nearly 1,500 fans.

From 1980-93, the ballpark was renamed in honor of the late UNLV assistant athletic director, Roger Barnson. An avid baseball supporter and former mound ace at Arizona State University, Barnson lost his life in an automobile accident on March 14, 1980.

Television arrived at the UNLV baseball diamond in May of 1977 when the University of Hawaii televised a three-game series with UNLV.

In May of 1977, the stadium attendance record was set when over 5,000 people crammed into Rebel Field to watch the Kenny Rogers Celebrity-News Media Softball Game benefiting the Nevada Special Olympics.

Night baseball came to UNLV when lights were installed in June of 1982. The lights consist of eight standards for a total of 144 fixtures, with 1,500 watt metal halide. The lights, which came to a total cost of $180,000, were installed by Stratton Electric of Las Vegas.

In July of 1984, the infield grass was replaced with Santa Ana Hybrid, and the infield dirt was replaced with crushed brick added with a powder stabilizer from Phoenix, Arizona. In August of 1997, the infield was replaced with Aquarius soil underneath and infield dirt from Las Vegas rock infield mix. The outfield fence was also replaced and now stands twelve feet high. The fence, in place since the 1997 season, displays advertising.

In September of 1984, a $155,000 scoreboard was installed beyond the left field fence by Young Electric Sign Company. The scoreboard stands 35 feet high with "message grams" on both sides of the board.

Former Rebel head coach Fred Dallimore worked on the project for two years. He helped negotiate a lease purchase arrangement with Young Electric Sign Company. "The one item I would like to stress is that the scoreboard will not take anything away from the educational dollars that the state provides for the University," Dallimore said, in 1984.

The back panel of the scoreboard has advertising displayed by Findlay Toyota, and the front has advertising displayed by Bank of America.

The park dimensions are 335 feet down the left and right field lines, 375 feet in the power alleys, and 400 feet to straightaway center field.

ROGER JOE BARNSON

UNLV Assistant Football Coach
1968-1972

Roger Barnson completed 12 years of service to the UNLV athletic program. He was an assistant football coach working with the defensive secondary for five years. He spent his final seven years as an assistant athletic director. An avid baseball supporter and former pitcher at Arizona State, Barnson lost his life in a tragic automobile accident on March 14, 1980.

Grand Opening/Dedication - Jan. 29, 1994

It took the hard work of many individuals and on Jan. 29, 1994, the Earl E. Wilson Baseball stadium, a state-of-the-art facility on the UNLV campus, was officially dedicated. Opening day ceremonies, attended by a crowd of 2,500, the largest home crowd in UNLV baseball history, included alumni games, a home-run derby, free barbecue for all fans, and the actual dedication ceremonies.

The stadium was made possible by a $1.2 million gift from the estate of the late Earl and Hazel Wilson.

A home-run derby was held featuring UNLV alumnus and National League All-Star Matt Williams of the Arizona Diamondbacks. Williams, a four-time gold glove winner, wowed the crowd with long shots over the left field fence, then switched to the left side to launch one out over the right field fence on his final swing.

The dedication ceremony featured presentations of honorary jerseys to Jay Brown and Mel Wolzinger, co-trustees of the Wilson estate. Following the formal presentations, Wolzinger threw out the ceremonial first pitch.

It was a great day for all those who attended the festivities. Drawings were held throughout the alumni baseball game and lucky fans won autographed baseballs, bats, Rebel baseball hats and shirts. The alumni game was won by the UNLV alumni by the score of 15-14 when Williams' sacrifice fly in the top of the ninth broke a 14-14 tie.

The Keyser Gift

Longtime Nevada residents Dorothy and Bob Keyser announced a gift to the University of Nevada, Las Vegas baseball team in 1989 which is used to fund scholarships for Rebel baseball players. Keyser, former owner of Coors of Las Vegas, donated a portion of the Keyser Company properties, valued at approximately $325,000 to the UNLV baseball program. Keyser passed away in 1995 after a long illness. He is survived by his wife Dorothy. As a shareholder in this property, UNLV baseball will derive semi-annual income payments which will be deposited into the scholarship account for student-athletes on the baseball team.

The Keyser gift will provide approximately $15,000 annually to fund scholarships for three student-athletes in perpetuity.

The Keyser's have enjoyed a long-standing relationship with former UNLV head coach Fred Dallimore and the Rebel baseball program, donating generous annual gifts to Rebel baseball.

"Fred (Dallimore) is a fine gentleman and a great coach," Keyser said in 1989. "That is why Dorothy and I wanted to make this contribution to UNLV."

"This was the first major donation to the UNLV baseball program," Dallimore said in 1989. "The Keyser's will enable us to put our program on more solid financial footing."

Keyser was the first to provide endowed scholarships for baseball. The endowment allows the baseball coach to utilize the funds currently allocated to scholarships for operating dollars to further enhance the program.
